

Step 4 – Introduction about How to setup Favorites bar, Bookmarks Toolbar, or Bookmarks bar, depending on the Browser.

- Microsoft Edge and Internet Explorer Browsers call them Favorites bar. Mozilla Firefox Browser is called Bookmarks Toolbar. Google Chrome and Opera Browsers call them Bookmarks bar.
- When you open your Browser, it typically does not show the bar. That's why I will show you in the Step 4 in each Part to how to setup the bar on each Browser.
- Next explains the Bar on each Browser.

- When you setup Favorites bar in Microsoft Edge and Internet Explorer Browsers, you can add Websites on the Favorites bar. You can also add Folders on the Favorites bar and add Websites under the Folders. Microsoft Edge use to allow Websites under the Folders, but now it just allows one Website under the Folders, which is not good. But, when you Import Bookmarks on another Browser to Microsoft Edge, the Websites under the Folders work, which is good. That's why I Import Bookmarks to Microsoft Edge. Step 5 shows you how to do it. Internet Explorer allows you to add a number of Websites under the Folders, which is good.
- Next explains the other Browsers.

- When you setup Bookmarks Toolbar in Mozilla Firefox, you can add Websites on the Bookmarks Toolbar. You can also add Folders on the Bookmarks Toolbar and add Websites under the Folders, which is good.
- When you setup Bookmarks bar in Google Chrome and Opera Browsers, you can add Websites on the Bookmarks bar. You can also add Folders on the Bookmarks bar and add Websites under the Folders, which is good.
- Next explains more about them.

- If you want to add a lot of Websites and Folders on the bar, I recommend you do that on one Browser, like I did with Mozilla Firefox. As I mentioned before, I recommend you have two Browsers. Once you add a lot of Websites and Folders on the bar in your Browser it is easier to Import them on your second Browser. But, each Browser is different to Import. As I mentioned before, Step 5 shows you how to Import.
- Next explains more about Import on each Browser.

- Microsoft Edge use to allow Import from other Browsers to the Favorites bar. But, it now just allows Import to Favorites, but you can move them from Favorites Bar, which is better.
- Internet Explorer allows to Import from just Google Chrome to the Favorites bar.
- Mozilla Firefox allows to Import from Microsoft Edge, Internet Explorer and Google Chrome to the Bookmarks Toolbar. It doesn't allow Opera.
- Google Chrome allows to Import from Microsoft Edge, Internet Explorer and Mozilla Firefox to the Bookmarks bar. It doesn't allow Opera.
- Opera allows to Import from Internet Explorer, Mozilla Firefox and Google Chrome to the Bookmarks bar. It doesn't allow Microsoft Edge.
- Next explains more about the bars.

- As I mentioned before in Step 3, I recommend you setup one or two Home pages, and Step 3 shows you how to do that. Once you setup your Home pages, I recommend you add the home pages websites on to your bar. Step 4 Parts show you how to that in each Browser. The reason to do that, is if you go to another Website on one of your Home pages, it is easier to click on the Website link on the bar to go back to your Home page vs. type in the full HTML. Once you setup Folders and other Websites under the Folders on your bar, it is easier to click on a Folder and click on the Website you want to go back to the Website you want.
- This is the End of Step 4 Introduction.
